

Sarah Emma Edmonds: The Great Pretender

Sarah Emma Edmonds was born in Canada in 1841. She was a bright and curious child, but she was also restless and headstrong. At the age of 16, she ran away from home and joined a traveling circus. For the next few years, she worked as a trapeze artist and a bareback rider. In 1861, the American Civil War broke out, and Edmonds decided to join the fight. She disguised herself as a man and enlisted in the Union Army.

Edmonds fought bravely in the war, and she quickly rose through the ranks. She was wounded twice, but she never gave up. In 1863, she was captured by the Confederate Army and sentenced to death. However, she managed to escape and make her way back to the Union lines.
