In June 1967, a group of eight schoolboys and their two teachers set off on a school trip to the remote Norwegian island of Spitsbergen. Their destination was the Arctic wilderness, a place of stunning beauty but also of extreme danger.

The boys were all experienced hikers and climbers, but they were no match for the unforgiving conditions they encountered. Within days, they were lost and stranded in a blizzard. As the days turned into weeks, the boys began to starve and freeze. One by one, they succumbed to the cold, until only one boy remained alive.

The boy's name was Bjørnøya, and his story is one of incredible courage and survival. Against all odds, he managed to stay alive for 76 days, enduring unimaginable hardships. He hunted seals for food, built a shelter to protect himself from the elements, and even fought off a polar bear that attacked him.

Bjørnøya's story is a testament to the human spirit's ability to overcome even the most extreme challenges. It is a story that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.
