The book begins with the Titanic's construction in Belfast and follows the ship on its ill-fated maiden voyage. Moses provides a vivid description of the ship's luxurious accommodations and the excitement of the passengers as they boarded for their journey to New York City.

On the night of April 14, the Titanic struck an iceberg. The collision caused a series of hull breaches that quickly filled the ship with water. As the ship sank, passengers and crew fought for their lives in a desperate struggle for survival.

Moses recounts the heroic efforts of the crew, who stayed at their posts to help passengers evacuate the ship. He also tells the stories of the passengers, many of whom displayed incredible courage and selflessness in the face of certain death.
